To Whom It May Concern:

It is a distinct pleasure to recommend to you one of the senior Drupal Developers in my team, Jim Goldbloom. In my capacity as Director, Content Management Systems, I have worked closely with Jim for one year (2012-13).

Jim is an outstanding consultant who continuously exceeds the expectations set for his position. He willingly accepts challenging assignments and offers to contribute where ever he can. Jim has demonstrated excellent programming and analytical skills which are very essential to addressing the constantly evolving business requirements. The best thing I noticed in him is his ability to learn the latest technical skills, technology stacks and tools and offer better solutions.

Jim has worked extensively with our Drupal profile and has been integral in developing and maintain many of our Drupal sites. In addition, Jim has now gained extensive experience with the Acquia PAAS, migrating 40+ sites into the platform which now hosts all of our Drupal sites. The success of that migration can be solely attributed to Jim's diligent work and his ability to surmount obstacles through creative solutions.

His persevering nature, well-balanced personality and eagerness to excel make him an apt candidate for any development position. He will undoubtedly be a benefit to any organization that he joins.

Sincerely,

Ian Mieville
